

TRAM COMPANY CALLS CAR AND BUS LINES A LOSING PROPOSITION

Figures Show Loss of $34,500 for 1927 Have Been Growing Since 1913

An annual deficit that amounted to $9,000 in 1923 and $34,500 in 1927 is prompting the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company to petition the Wisconsin railroad commission for abandonment of the Neenah-Kaukauna interurban lines it was indicated by the company's statistical report presented to the commission Wednesday morning at a hearing at Neenah. The report shows that the operating revenues from the lines have decreased from $143,389.89 to $109,000.36 while the operating expenses have increased from $149,249.72 to $165,578.42 over the same period.

The motor bus line operated by the company also has been a losing proposition according to the report, the loss being estimated at more than $51,000 in the last three years. This chart shows, however, that while the company's revenue has increased nearly three times what it was in 1923 the operating expenses have increased about four times. In this division the value of equipment has nearly tripled and the cost of traffic and transportation is about two and one half times greater than three years ago. The buses were operated at a loss of nearly $9,000 the first year, $27,000 the second year and $16,500 last year.

During the hearing it was brought out that the cost of operating the street cars was 38 cents per mile, taxes and depreciation included and 19 cents per car mile for the buses. Reducing the amount for taxes the cost was 34 cents and 17 1/2 cents respectively.

The net loss to the company from both bus and interurban lines during the past five years has been nearly $325,000. The company estimated a 3 per cent per year depreciation over this period or $283,170.25 and paid taxes amounting to $151,583.17. This part of the report was said to include the Appleton city line which also has been run at a loss.

Estimated railway construction expenditures during the next two years has been estimated at $140,000 and all but $40,000 will be spent this year. This expenditure is divided as follows: E. Wisconsin-ave subway abutments $50,000; new crossing on Rankin-st near Appleton Coated Paper company $10,000; putting up rails and welding joints on interurban rails $3,000; welding joints in city of Menasha, Washington-st, $700; relaying track in Menasha $30,000.

New trolley wire on Kaukauna division $12,000; new bridge on S. Cedar-st, Appleton, near knitting works, $4,000; reconstruction S. Oneida-st drawbridge, $2,000; replacing plank railway crossings with amesite filler $300; contemplated improvement of car barns, $5,000; Menasha bridge $16,000; railroad crossing at Fox River Paper company mills, Appleton, $4,500; new trolley wire on Kaukauna and Neenah interurban lines $12,000.

If the electric railway service is abandoned and buses continue on a 10 minute schedule to Neenah-Menasha the annual deficit will be cut from $72,982.59 reported for 1927 to an estimated $9,829. A. K. Ellis, vice president and general manager of the power company intimated that if the electric line is abandoned his organization will request a change in schedule so that buses would operate every 15 or 20 minutes between the cities instead of the present 10 minute schedule of buses and street cars.

They will represent the 4,000 Kiwanians in the district. Bert F. Zinn, Milwaukee, district governor, will be in charge of the delegates and visitors, who will travel by special train to the convention city. The governor will preside at the district dinner to be held at the Olympic hotel in Seattle Tuesday evening June 19. At this dinner, President Henry C. ## STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Almost daily we hear of it—the story of some man, probably a friend, suddenly cut off in the midst of his usefulness, in the very prime of life. That's what high blood pressure and heart trouble will do—snap off life without warning. All due to our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected. The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteful form, each tablet representing ten drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove a revelation. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, ask for Dioxol.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

What Does G. O. P. Mean? Frederic Haskin Knows

The number of requests sent to Frederick J. Haskin, information bureau for the Post-Crescent, at Washington, are showing a rapid advance. In addition the seekers of the information are not only those who would know the real name of a prize fighter, but includes a request for the number of the various kinds of banks that failed during the past five years.

RULE WANTS SYSTEM IN OFFICE OF CLERK

Mayor Believes Changes Would Make Expenditure Figures Easily Available

A standard, uniform system of accounting should be installed in the city hall, according to Mayor A. C. Rule, so there will be a record from year to year of the depreciation of equipment and when pieces of apparatus are purchased. He also believes a system of book keeping will enable anyone to ascertain city expenditures at any time and for any period of years or months.

As soon as the revision of ordinance is completed it is the mayor's intention to approach the council on this subject, he intimated this week. As city books now are kept there is a check on expenditures, he said, but no records of the purchase of equipment and other articles during past years. A new system of bookkeeping is required as a practical business policy, he said.

asked out of idle curiosity and said "The above question is not asked through idle curiosity, but is necessary for me to have in the completion of data on Banks and Industrial Corporations. As usual, Mr. Haskin gave him the desired information."

Some W. DePere women were preparing a contest on menus most desired by noted men and one of them, seeking to steal a march on the others, wrote Mr. Haskin asking his favorite Sunday menu. In answer to that, Mr. Haskin was forced to reply that "Cal's" favorite meal was not a matter of record because it is a well known fact that he is a hearty eater and eats what is set before him and no questions asked.

NEED MANY CHANGES TO KEEP PACE WITH AMERICAN EDUCATION

School Rooms Are Different Than They Were and New Subjects Are Taught

In education, engineering and thought have kept pace with the characteristic up-to-dateness of America, according to information received at the office of the superintendent of schools from the Better Schools League.

The new education has brought the Junior school organization, the Platoon school, the individual instruction projects, the pre-vocational, and manual arts schools.

It has likewise shown itself in concern for health, resulting in motivated play activities, medical inspection, dental clinics, open-air schools, investigations and adjustments for proper heating and ventilating schools, the determination of proper seatings and proper room arrangements in consideration of light and other health influences.

Art has gained a new place in the well-organized curriculum and is evidence of the concern of education for cultural subjects. The subject has been made more practical in that it affords an opportunity for creative expression and places the pupil in greater harmony with objectives and environment.

The same is true of music and similar subjects. It has emphasized the laboratory method of instruction and the important place of our sciences in the scheme of education. To this entire program has been added a wealth of material for motivating the basic three Rs.

These conditions reflected in a happy child life, a new community atmosphere and a wholesome public interest and participation in all matters educational, represent an evolving school system that reaches for its fullest expression in the "1928 Model" school.

WHICH CAME FIRST WIRES OR RAILROAD?

Secretary of State Highway Commission Digs Up Old
Law on Matter

Madison—(P)—The telegraph may have beat the railroad into Wisconsin. The state highway commission, which concerns itself under the law with the placement of electric, telephone and telegraph lines along the highways of the state, has found this truth in an old statute book.

Secretary C. R. Weymouth has found that at the time Wisconsin was admitted as a state in 1848 there was not a railroad operating in Wisconsin. "But the telegraph had already been invented and was proving a practical device for transmitting messages," he said. "The only feasible and economical way to make use of this invention at that time was to place wires along the public highways."

Mr. Weymouth has also found that the first territorial assembly adopted a law which was tantamount to refusing telegraph companies permission to erect lines, although this was not the sense of the law. It simply provided that "persons might erect and maintain electric lines for telegraphing between points" along any of the public roads and across any of the waters or bridges within the territory or state which it was expected would be created.

This right was limited, however, by a provision that such use was not to discommode the public in the use of the highways and bridges, or endanger or seriously interrupt the navigation of any of the waters which might be crossed.

In 1851 the legislature of the newly created state authorized the incorporation of telegraph companies.

URGES EARLY MAILING OF MOTHER'S DAY CARDS

The need for early mailing of greeting cards intended for Mother's day, Sunday May 14, is pointed out in a bulletin from the Federal Postal department received Wednesday by F. P. Wetzel, acting postmaster here. The department points out that the volume of mail incident to Mother's day will undoubtedly be greater this year than last and therefore there is a need for early mailing. The sentiment and value attached to greeting cards is lessened considerably if they are delivered late, the postal department points out.

As ordinary mail is not delivered on Sunday, those desiring to have their mail delivered on that day are advised to use special delivery which insures delivery at Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Legality of the town of Deer Creek caucus at which Anthony McClone and August Lipke were nominated for town chairman apparently is questioned by some of the town officers who have asked an opinion from John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney. Charles Murray, clerk of the town, has in-

In the election which followed the caucus Lipke defeated McClone for chairman by four votes. McClone had been chairman of the town for 12 years.

STATE TAKES HAND IN PAVING PROJECT FOR WISCONSIN-AVE

State Health Department Engineer Wants Sewer Laid in Proper Manner

The city of Appleton bumped into another obstacle on the E. Wisconsin-ave pavement when the state health department sent O. J. Muegge, a department engineer here Thursday to inquire about the arrangements for sewer operation.

Whether the city will have to wait until a large storm sewer is laid and at least a year elapses so that the ground will settle sufficiently, or whether the city engineer and the health department can settle the matter with a recommendation that the sewer be built a block north or south of Wisconsin-ave remains to be seen.

Mr. Muegge told city officials they now are being troubled with backup of sewer waters in the Fifth ward, yet they apparently are going ahead with another large paving project without providing for a storm sewer on the street.

CONDEMN FARM LAND FOR NEW POWER LINE

Commissioners Appraise Land Where Objects Have Been Raised

Between 30 and 35 farmers attended a condemnation hearing in county court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann Thursday. The farmers' own land on which a power line is to be constructed by the Wisconsin Valley Electric company from Green Bay to Stevens Point. The farmers have refused to sell and the condemnation proceedings were started to gain the right-of-way for the power line.

Three commissioners were appointed by Judge Heinemann to appraise the land and hold local hearings to determine what objections farmers have to selling the property. The commissioners are A. W. Lunde, town of Grand Chute, M. K. Moe, Spooner, and Herman W. Kott, Appleton. The commissioners are to file their reports before Judge Heinemann Saturday.

The same commissioners have charge of the appraisal of property owned by 18 other farmers. Condemnation proceedings against the first group was started several weeks ago. All of the property is located in the towns of Oneida, Spooner, Deer Creek, Centro and Maine.

NEW CHAMBER MEMBER
The latest member of the local chamber of commerce is the K-Q electric company, 531 W. College-ave, of which H. M. Northrup is manager. The company recently located here and is a branch of a wholesale electric house of Milwaukee.

ABILITY SOLVES THE PROBLEM
Ambassador Morrow has already justified his appointment as the official representative of this government to the government of Mexico. He has ended a controversy that has existed between the two governments for some eleven years, one that seemed impossible to settle, often declared to be the "insoluble issue."
It was on the 1st of May 1917 that Mexico adopted one of its numerous constitutions. This one contained a provision, the purpose of which was to take away from Americans their property in Mexico, property for which they had paid and to which they were entitled under the laws of any civilized nation. The subtle means employed was a constitutional declaration that, whereas the surface of the ground belonged to whomsoever might be the owner, everything under the ground, the sub-soil so-called, belonged to the government. The Americans interested in various mining projects as well as oil wells, through the government of the United States, made protest. When Carranza was overthrown and Huerta became by the power of might, president, this government refused to recognize him without sufficient guarantee for the protection of American rights. Through the rule of President Obregon and despite the efforts of Secretary of State Hughes the parties were unable to arrive at any adjustment of the conflicting claims, although at one time, seemingly, the Harding administration made an agreement with Mexico that was thought to be satisfactory but that failed. Our government may or may not be interested in the purposes that actuate another government such as Mexico but it would be a spineless nation indeed that would permit another nation to invite an investment from its citizens, turn over property to them, receive their money and turn around the next day and strip them of what it had given them.
Mexico has receded from its former position. It has confirmed all legal titles as they existed before 1917. It has reserved to itself the title to minerals under lands where no attempt has been made to mine them. The result is illuminating of two things, the advantage that accrues to a nation that selects talent to represent it in difficult positions; and the advantage also that accrues to a nation that is not belligerent when its right or the rights of its citizens are violated but is intent upon pursuing a policy of patience, satisfied that its opinions will eventually be recognized as just.
The result of course is to improve the relations between the United States and Mexico and to inspire confidence here that the Mexican government is inclined to meet controverted questions that arise in something approaching a fair manner.

APPLIES GOLDEN RULE
Down in Naylor, Ga., a bank was closed by order of the state banking department. The circumstances of the bank's difficulties are not contained in the account. It is of little moment. What is of moment is that the president of the defunct bank, although not legally liable, because of a feeling of moral responsibility, out of his private resources redeemed all outstanding shares of capital stock of the institution so that the shareholders would suffer no loss and deposited with the banking department sufficient funds to cover the accounts of all depositors.
This literal application of the Golden Rule is worthy of notice and comment. Only too infrequently are the principles of this rule applied, and even less frequently does the report of it come to our ears. Especially is this true in industry and finance. Not that industry and finance is dishonest. Not at all. But it holds to the letter of the law; it holds itself absolved by the cold rule of legal liability. But the report from Georgia says that this bank president was not legally liable, yet, without pressure, and of his own accord, he has personally met the obligations of an institution of which he was a part. Whether or not he was in any degree responsible for the failure of the bank, and it is not reported that he was, it does not seem fair that he alone should assume the responsibility. And of course, strictly speaking, it isn't. But there is a thrill in the thought that there are men employed in the pursuits of this material world who, even in the absence of legal liability, recognize a moral responsibility, even to the extent of sacrificing many thousands of their own personal fortunes.

WORK FOR THE LEGION
Speaking before the Monroe, Wisconsin Post of the American Legion, Rev. Joseph Lonergan, of Rockford, Illinois, advised the entry of the Legion into politics "to save the nation from politicians." The speaker said the Legion had been standing idly by "while payrollers and graft concessions under the slogan of 'America first' are marching to destroy decency and honesty in government."

Despite our agreement with the necessity of doing something to put politics on a higher plane, the principal part of which would be to retire the sort of politicians who hang around the public's neck like the Old Man of the Sea, the reverend gentleman is quite mistaken in his advice.

The American Legion is a great organization consisting of some millions of men tied together by bonds, next to blood relationship, the strongest on earth. But organizations as such, whether of the high order of the Legion or the low order of the Klan or any intermediate order, have no proper place in our political life. By entering into politics they but destroy themselves.

The theory of all good government, and the practice as well, is that all people participate in that government and use some degree of intelligence and at least an ordinary amount of fairness in acting upon public questions. When the mass of the people fail to act intelligently it is they themselves who pay for the errors of their way. And on the other hand when they approach public questions in a fair and intelligent manner as they might settle a dispute between contesting neighbors they invariably get good government and its manifold blessings.

"We can only defend ourselves from within the nation by being active in government and that means being active in politics," said the speaker. To this all must subscribe heartily but being active in politics is a question for each individual to act upon and not a mass question to be acted upon by organizations.

There is no royal road to success in government. There is no panacea for human ills. The keeping of good government is the result of constant toil, or, as Jefferson said concerning liberty, a matter of "eternal vigilance." When thirty per cent of the people go to the polls and seventy per cent go fishing and of the thirty who go to the polls more than half are tickled to death at a campaign of abuse and misstatement and vilification, we get men like Small for governor in Illinois and many others in the different states who afterwards grace our penitentiaries.

The Legion is probably the outstanding organization of America today because it resolutely refuses to enter politics as an organization. The moment it begins to take sides in purely political controversies it will begin to lose the great moral strength which now radiates from it. That the Legion might undertake the work of helping to push and drive people into participating in their government is quite another thing and well within its natural sphere.

COLLEGE MEN'S PAY
Dr. John A. Tigert, director of the Federal Bureau of Education, reveals the fact that a college education has a direct effect on the pay envelope.
College graduates, he shows, average salaries between $1400 and $5000 yearly. For high school graduates the average runs between $850 and $2400. For men with only grade school education, the average is $600 to $1500.
Dr. Tigert didn't mention it, but a college education gives a man one more advantage. A man with a trained mind, broadened by contact with many phases of culture, can enjoy his life more. Not only can he make more money; he can be happier while he is making it.

WE CAN'T EVEN TELL THE TRUTH TO THE WELL
Time and again it has happened in one town and another that a mistake policy of suppressing the truth about a small outbreak of communicable disease has brought the blight of a real epidemic to the shortsighted community. A visitation of plague in California, typhoid fever in Montreal, and smallpox in innumerable places, might be cited as instances. Dr. Richard Sloc, a district health officer in New York state, gives a very clear impression of the way this foolish old policy works. The old-fashioned health officer tells the reporter, "No, not a thing of interest; only one case of communicable disease reported. Johnny Brown has diphtheria. It is our first case in nearly two years. Nothing alarming about it—it's not an epidemic, only one case. Please don't mention it in your paper. There is no use to worry the parents—it's only one case. We'll keep it quiet and perhaps we won't have another. And we don't want it spread abroad that we have diphtheria in town. It's bad for business—it may keep the children away from the movies, stores and gatherings. Parents are so panicky—don't say word about it. Of course if we get a whole lot of cases, then you can publish it as we might have to close the schools and move out. But no use alarming everybody just yet. Can't imagine how this kid got diphtheria—first one in two years—haven't the faintest idea how he got it."

Then comes the up to date health officer, confronting the same situation:
"Yes! Here's some real news. Little Sarah Smith has diphtheria, poor kid—never had T. A. (toxin antitoxin immunization). Our first case of diphtheria in nearly two years. Hope you will see that it gets good front page display. You see, it is pretty important, for it is the first reported case of a communicable disease, and that is of great importance to the community at large. It always comes as an undiscovered or unreported case of the same disease, or 'carrier' about, and this is the reason it is so serious or even times alarming. Get this straight—we're not worried about this reported case—we can treat it and by proper isolation prevent it from doing any harm. The thing we're worried about is the undiscovered or unreported case or the 'carrier,' that constitutes a menace until discovered or removed. A very mild case may transmit a virulent form of the disease to another person. Now don't fail to give this case as much publicity as possible. Parents who care for their children will bless you for the prompt warning. They will be on the watch and take proper precautions, and the wise parents will have their children protected with T. A."
There is something to think about. It might be a good thing for a Chamber of Commerce and business men's associations to discuss calmly what there is no "scare" on. Business men are not so dumb that they cannot see where their best interests lie.
To a proposal to pay a certain health officer a fair salary a supervisor exclaimed, "Why, that fellow isn't earning very much, I am sure, but he hasn't put up a quarantine notice in six months." The health officer had done such exceptional work that no diphtheria had occurred in the community, and only pure milk was being sold in the community. But nobody knew that.

What is the cause of falling asleep at the movies? I get enough sleep at night, I am sure, but half way through a moving picture I am likely to fall asleep and my friends have to wake me when they are ready to leave. (Miss T. H.)
Answer—The foul air that prevails in most movie "palaces" is probably responsible for the drowsiness. Even in movie houses where the wonderful and infallible air conditioning equipment is featured on the screen, foul air is rarely missing.
"Doctor," Just a Job
I understand that some doctors are advising patients not to eat food cooked in aluminum ware. (Mrs. J. L.)
Answer—Yes, a dentist or a near doctor of one kind or another may propagate such stuff but you will not find any real physician doing so. Aluminum ware has proved an excellent thing for cooking, and so far as hygiene is concerned, no other ware has any advantage over it.
How to Heat
For a dwelling, which is the best system of heating, hot air, steam or hot water, coal or wood stove? (C. W. E.)
Answer—Merely from the hygienic point of view it is immaterial. An open fire, of course, is a proper fire, is probably the most healthful form of heating. With any method, the important point is to provide fairly adequate humidity, and this requires the evaporation of 30 or 40 gallons of water daily in a dwelling of eight rooms when the air is heated to 68 degrees, or a much larger quantity of water if you heat it at 70 or 75 or above.
Book for Home
Speaking of books for nurses, I believe it is better for the prospective nurse not to begin the study of nursing until she enters the training class. She may well devote her preparatory study to such smatterings of human physiology and hygiene as the general public school course provides, and if she goes through the college she should soak in as much science, Latin and English as possible.
For the housewife or mother who desires to become more proficient and useful as a practical nurse, the best book I can suggest is "Simplified Nursing," by Florence Dakin, T. N., published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia, $3.

COMPETENT BUT UNINSPIRED
When my opinion was asked of Hugh Walpole's new novel, "Wintersmoon," I said on the spur of the moment, without much consideration, that I felt it was competent but uninspired.
Thinking it over, that continues to be the impression the book made on me. It is well written, as everything is that Hugh Walpole publishes, but the world would not have lost a great deal if it had not been written at all. It is in a class with a considerable number of English novels published the past few years — of considerable technical excellence but without that bite and sting of either language or ideas that make of a book a new experience.
There are books that in a technical way are properly done but that have something that mysterious something called life which makes them intellectual landmarks. They are the books that have fairly tortured their author until they get written, the books that no one else in the world's millions could have written, that would leave gaps like an extracted tooth if their authors did not write them.
"Wintersmoon" is not all like that. It seems to me, although I may of course be mistaken. It is one more novel by Hugh Walpole, a writer who has drained his mind in some twenty or more other novels, I think, and that he has had no new experience, no new revelation, that nothing happened to him which forced him to write a new book. It looks to me as if he merely wrote a new book because writing books is his profession, because any book he writes will have a fairly good sale, and because he has to keep busy at something.
I have during the past year read several books by persons who did not have one tenth of Hugh Walpole's technical equipment but who had something to say that welled out of them as a song does from a bird's throat.
"Wintersmoon" is the story of an English girl who married without love to help her sister. The man doesn't love either; the whole thing is purely a bargain. She becomes the mistress of "Wintersmoon," the English estate and the story consists of her life there, the birth of love for her husband, the birth and death of her son, the tragic story of her sister's marriage, and the stories of the lives of various people who touch the lives of these two.
"Wintersmoon," the English estate — symbolic of the old established English life that has made the history of England — is held up before the reader as something valuable and precious, something that England must offer to destroy. It is contrasted with the new order that is changing England and the world. It is represented as building character and stability and integrity.
All of which, as I said, is competent and it is hardly possible to take exception to the underlying ideas of the story. It is thoroughly right-minded. That kind of thing could be expected from Hugh Walpole. He is always right-minded and sane and reasonable. All of which is to his credit as a citizen and a man. Doubtless he would be a person very much worth knowing and associating with — cultivated, pleasant, civilized.
But uninspired. At least in this book. There was a time earlier in his career when Hugh Walpole seemed to me to write because his inner experiences forced him into it. Later I have had the feeling that he writes — uninspired. At least in this book. The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau. Frederic J. Haskin, director Washington D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.
Q. Can any material other than wood be used to make paper boxes?
A. A. A.
Q. Certain fibrous materials other than wood such as jute, hemp, and manila fibers may sometimes be found; also the cheaper grades of colored cotton rags may be used as raw material. A very large part of the raw material going into the manufacture of paper board consists of waste papers as collected and marketed in all of the good sized cities in the country.
Q. At what distance are storm clouds visible to the naked eye? L. P.
A. The Weather Bureau says that the distance at which storm clouds are visible to the naked eye varies with the observer's position and the kind of clouds. If a person is in an open flat country and the clouds are of the broad stratus or layer type, he may not see them more than 30 or 40 miles away, and even not half so far if the air tends to be misty or hazy. On the other hand, when the air is quite clear a well developed cumulo-nimbus, or thunderstorm, cloud may, in favorable circumstances, be seen when more than 100 miles away.

Q. How did the material called tweed get its name? H. H.
A. The name of this soft, flexible wool material derived its name from the locality where it was first manufactured — in the villages along the Tweed River in southern Scotland.
Q. How can a boy's baseball team get into the competition for the Junior World Series? D. A. H.
A. The Junior World Series is conducted by the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion. Teams of boys of age 16 or under and not over 16 years of age may enter the competition. If you do not know who the Athletic Officer of the American Legion in your city or town is, write to Dan Sowers, Director of the Americanism Commission, Indianapolis, Indiana. He will send you entry blanks and tell you where to find the nearest Legion athletic officer.
Q. Was the ukulele designed by a native of Hawaii? L. G.
A. It is not of Hawaiian origin. A white man in Hawaii is said to have designed the instrument, using the Portuguese taro-patch-viola as a model. It was soon adopted by the Hawaiians.
Q. May one correctly say, "Come in the house?" J. R.
A. Josephine Baker says that this colloquialism is permissible only in familiar speech. "Into" is required because entrance is indicated."
Q. Why was Memphis, Tennessee, so named? P. E. H.
A. Its situation upon a river was so similar to that of Memphis in Egypt, that the name was given.
Q. In endurance rides, how far is a horse supposed to travel each day? P. R. T.
A. The Bureau of Animal Industry says that according to endurance rides held under the direction of a Board of Sponsors made by the representatives of the various horse and jockey associations, 60 miles a day is the distance permitted for 5 consecutive days. The maximum time permitted on any day is 9 hours. The maximum time allowed for the entire ride is 50 hours. The horse is usually carrying from 200 to 225 pounds.

By Gilbert Swan
New York — See-sawing up and down Manhattan Isle, I met Harold Bell Wright's little boy, George, in the Algonquin lobby. . . . George started out to be a cowboy, but wound up by being an actor. . . . He played in some western stock companies and made his first Broadway appearance a few months ago. . . . The show wasn't a particular success.
At the Literary Guild birthday party I beheld such fountainheads of the literary as Zona Gale, Elinor Wylie, Carl Van Doren and Joseph Woods. . . . Krutch taking orders from Newman, per camera men and movie man, even as the veriest flapper or Rabbit. . . . And there I met Thornton Wilder, the young man who at 28 finds himself hailed in the bridge-of-San Luis Rey as a Hollywood star. . . . He is slender, dapper and will write his next book in Europe, but he won't tell what it's going to be about. . . . Saw Samuel Hoffenstein, who won the reputation of "the literary press agent," while doubling between Pegasus and Al Woods. . . . They tell me that his book of verse, "Poems on Nothing in Particular," has taken the place of question games at parties of the cognoscenti. . . . Whatever that may mean.
Saw Konrad Berovici at a St. Patrick's party of the Century Company, and he tells me he will make his first plunge as a Hollywood scenarist ere long. . . . It will be one of his gipsy stories, written for Dolores Del Rio, with Eddie Carew directing. . . . In all New York there is no more colorful character. . . . Writer, musician, nomad, citizen of the world, Berovici finds the doors of all Manhattan's foreign quarters open to him. . . . You'll find him in the tiny coffee houses of little Hungary or among the patriarchs of the Yiddish quarter. . . . Gipsies have long been his particular favorites. . . . A couple of years ago, having made a comfortable fortune from his writings, Berovici took a brownstone on Riverside Drive. . . . A few days later, complaints began to come from the pizy dwellers of that belt. . . . They said that gipsies in red bandanas, Orientals, Turks, negroes, Arabs and what-not were cluttering up their view of the river and they demanded that Berovici move. . . . He thought the situation quite amusing by atmospheric and gave Riverside Drive slants of Gotham's melting pot, the crowd dwellers thereon had never thought of.
Which reminds me that the gipsy fortune tellers of the lower East Side are packing their gasolene buggies and making ready for the open road. Already several camps are starting south. Nothing seems more incongruous in the welter of city traffic than the gay costumes of the children of Romany — the many petticoats, the shining gold earrings, the bright head-dresses and the brown skins. Fortunes are made, as well as told, during the cold months by these shrewd bargainers. Whereas they once rented little side-street doorways and urged passersby to cross their paths, the gipsies now are hired for fashionable parties. They go among the guests, reading fortunes in cards and in palms and are well paid by hosts and well tipped by guests.
So great became the vogue for gipsies during the past season—as dancers, as singers, fortune tellers and movie extras, that an organization was formed, any one wanting gipsies had merely to telephone and the would be supplied in any number for parties, entertainments or other tres.
And yet, whatever their income when the first spring winds blow they're off and away to the open road. They will not let themselves be absorbed by the life and customs of the land. They keep their king and the pay tribute to him.
highest peak, and what was the amount? S. E. D.
A. The national debt of the United States reached the highest peak in the history of the country on August 31, 1919, when the gross debt amounted to $25,598,000,000 (in round numbers), the net debt, to $25,700,855,253.75.
Q. How many days did Terence McSwiney fast? J. S.

QUESTION OF HARMONY AMONG DEMOCRATS IS CAUSING SPECULATION

Would Give Prohibition Another Try-out in Order to Keep Peace

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—It will require some able thinking—not to say a positive miracle—to keep the Democrats from discarding their chances for a 1928 victory by once more throwing the lady that's known as Harmony into the soup.

The proposal of Col Dan Roper that the party solve its problem by getting itself elected and giving prohibition enforcement an eight-year tryout under a dry president is perhaps the best to date. But it doesn't come anywhere near a solution.

The trouble is, that the party is divided between two brands of Harmony. To the dry Democrats, Harmony means eliminating the prohibition issue as a cause of party strife and nominating a dry candidate. To the wet Democrats Harmony means eliminating the prohibition issue as a cause of party strife and nominating Al Smith. A few leaders seem willing to disregard a man's record on prohibition entirely, but their combined voice is weak.

Roper, for instance, would shelve Smith for eight years, which would mean shelving him for good. In view of Smith's present position the idea has marked elements of humor. The plan to persuade Smith to step out of the front sea isn't new, but no one ever has returned from Albany or New York with the report that it had the slightest chance of working.

There are two courses which the party might pursue:

- 1—Nominate a wet candidate on a vigorous enforcement plank.
- 2—Nominate a dry candidate on a vigorous enforcement plank.
- 3—Nominate a neither wet nor dry candidate—like John W. Davis—and avoid the necessity of any hard hitting enforcement plank.

Obviously, in the case of any tie-up at the convention, the third plan would be, as it was in 1924, the easiest way out. But there is no assurance that the neither wet nor dry candidate would do any better than Davis did.

But because of the present Smith strength, the second proposition is virtually impossible. There is no dry candidate with anywhere near McAdoo's 1924 strength, nor any dry candidate who can hope to mass the support of the east along with that of the dry south and dry west. The party would have a bare chance to win by forgetting the east and trying to carry the country with the western and southern electoral votes, but the wet Smith strength makes the feat of foreign that program in the convention just about hopeless.

The contention that Smith is the only man who can win need not be considered here. But if the party plays smart politics in the campaign after he or anyone else is nominated it will grab the prohibition issue by the tail and fling it back into the Republican camp.

Republicans themselves realize perfectly well that when they took office with the main aim to enforce the laws the issue became very much theirs. But without being themselves lashed into zealous enforcement, they have been able to sit by contentedly and watch the poor Democrats wrestle with this political porcupine and get their hides full of quills. If politics consists of getting into office and holding on, the Democrats simply aren't politicians.

It is the perpetual amazement of some dry Republicans with whom your correspondent has talked that the opposition hasn't translated the wet-dry issue into a pure issue of actual enforcement and nailed it on the G. O. P. door.

Everyone who has investigated knows there are great areas where prohibition isn't being enforced. Senator Borah knows it, for instance, and views the situation with considerable alarm. He knows that the blame can't all be tacked on the administration that men charged with enforcement have to be appointed on recommendation of political leaders in their districts and that political leaders in many large cities, such as New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis, are wet.

But even if the Democrats couldn't improve enforcement when elected—and they could if they wanted to badly enough—they could at least promise better enforcement. And, once in power, they could hardly do worse.

CREDIT SCIENCE FOR CONTROL OF DISEASE

State Health Officer Gives Figures Showing Decrease in Deaths

Madison—(AP)—The last generation has been a golden age in revealing correct knowledge of the causes and control of disease, and especially in discovering such boons for the conservation of human life as vaccination, smallpox vaccination, immunization against diphtheria, and curative agents for scarlet fever and other maladies, said Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer. He spoke before the meeting of the Wisconsin public health nurses, in Madison Wednesday.

Back in the eighties, Wisconsin lost 2,200 lives from typhoid fever. Today our yearly typhoid mortality is from 30 to 40.

Because of the close working agreement between school and health agencies," Dr. Harper said, "the school has become a safer place than ever before to entrust the child."

While attending the school he is entrusted to the state and in return for that trust which parents put in the state, according to Dr. Harper, the state endeavors to help the child to be a good healthy citizen.

The advisory service which the state board of health gives to the public health nurses is one means of cooperation in making local health work more effective.

Dr. G. W. Henika, assistant state health officer, discussed the relations of the deputy state health officer and the county physician to the county nursing program.

"The successful county nurse, said Dr. Henika, deserves a commission in the Northwest Mounted police—for when she goes after anything she usually gets it."

Miss Edith L. Olson, field advisory nurse, told the nurses that the success of Wisconsin counties in making health service pay is due to the comeration given to the qualifications of the nurses they select.

The nurses visited Mendota Hospital Wednesday.

Happiness is where you take it, said FANZO JILL for a dessert at your table.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom dear:

That was a blow in the solar plexus, as Alan would say. Your opinion of my feeling toward Billy Bartlett, I mean. I'm afraid you think I've encouraged him but honestly I haven't.

And to prove I don't delight in having him mooning over me I've told him that if he doesn't stop acting as my personal Santa Claus I won't have anything more to do with him.

Alan found out about the perfume. It was in a box on my dressing table and I don't know what business Alan had to be snooping around there. He also discovered a note from Billy. There wasn't a thing in it that the whole world couldn't read but Alan said I'd had to stop robbing the cradle.

Well, I decided not to make a crisis out of it. I want everything to be peaceful when Florence gets here though how long it will remain that way if Alan persists in snooping around I don't know.

Just as if he had a right to object to my getting an innocent little note from Billy after I discovered a letter in his pocket from that freak friend of his; you remember the one I saw him lunching with when Norman was here?

I was getting his suit ready for the tailor which is one of the slavish things he expects of me; and when I emptied the inside coat pocket I found the tell-tale missive.

I happened to remark that if he couldn't bear to destroy her correspondence he'd better send his suits out himself. He thought I was jealous, the silly and when he pried around and discovered Billy's note he said he felt he had more right to be jealous than I had. As though you could compare the attentions of a kid like Billy to the expert vamping of his girl friend.

Of course, I don't object to Alan receiving mail from other women, but why not have it sent to the huge instead of the office? That's where men have the advantage. If I wanted to carry on a secret correspondence I'd have to hire a postoffice box.

That's what made me hot—to have the letter go direct to his office. It looked as though Alan suspected I'd open his mail. I wouldn't have read the letter if it hadn't already been opened. But when I saw the way she addressed him I felt I had the right to read the very end. I don't think "Old Fruit" is any way to start a letter to a married man.

Dearest love,
MARYE.

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"Oh, my," cried Scouty, "look up there. Poor Clowny's speeding through the air. That great big bird is stealing him. I fear he'll never come back. To Clowny it may be a thrill to be picked up in some bird's bill, but I'd be mighty scared. Just look, he surely is real-quick!"

Then Copy said, "What can we do to help poor Clowny? Wish I knew. That bird will soon be out of sight and we'll be left behind. Let's look and find the butcher man, 'cause he will help us if he can. At least if we are trying to help 'twill somewhat ease my mind."

So off they started, down a hill, all closely watching Clowny till the monstrous bird that carried him flew near a mountain top. "Oh, gee," yelled Copy Tinykite, "the bird has now flown out of sight. My, wouldn't it be terrible if he'd let Clowny drop. But Clowny didn't drop. Oh, no!"

The bird bird didn't let him go. He held him tightly in his claws and flew on, through the air. "Where are we going?" Clowny cried. "Why did you take me out on this ride? You left the others all behind. I wish I was back there."

And then the big bird circled 'round and dropped down nearer to the ground. A mountain loomed up not far off. The bird sailed out that way. "Please land me on the mountain side. I'm getting tired," wee Clowny cried. "Twas fun to ride with you, but I have had enough today."

The queer bird seemed to understand. He swooped right down where he could land. Then Clowny got a big surprise, and loudly cried, "Hurrah!" The bird has done his very best to be real kind. "Twas in a nest of little birds he landed. Then the big bird flew away."

(The Tinymites meet a queer man in the next story.)

CIVIL WAR VETERAN
OBSERVES NINETIETH
ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTHHenry Jones Is Shiocton's Oldest Resident and Hopes to Live to Be 100 Years Old

Leeman—Henry Jones, Shiocton's oldest resident, observed his ninetieth birthday Wednesday morning. He is a native of Shiocton, a long ride with his son George of Hortonville, in the afternoon and being host to several neighbors and friends in the evening.

Mr. Jones is very spry for one of his age and retains full possession of all his faculties. He gives every promise of attaining his ambition, which is to live to be 100 years old.

Mr. Jones comes honestly by his old age, his grandfather having walked twenty miles when he was 107 years old to pay a call to his son, Henry Jones' father.

Mr. Jones was born at Millville, South Carolina, on April 4, 1835. When the Civil war broke out, his sympathies were with the north and he fought through the war against him from the south. At St. Petersburg, Mr. Jones was captured by the Southern forces and was sent to Libby Prison, a place not to be desired in the way of prison quarters. After spending about a week here Mr. Jones was released and went back to his regiment. In the battle of Antietam Mr. Jones was wounded in the right arm, his arm still showing a scar as from a ghastly wound. It was shortly after this that the regiment to which Mr. Jones' belonged was engaged in the Battle of Gettysburg, though Mr. Jones himself was not with it at the time of the battle.

However, he was qualified to participate on the reunion at the Gettysburg battlefield and visited the scene of the battle on its fiftieth anniversary.

After the war Mr. Jones came north, locating first at Winnequoque, later at Clintonville, then at Appleton and finally thirty-three years ago, coming to Shiocton.

Coming to Shiocton, Mr. Jones built with his own hands the residence which he has since occupied with his family.

STAGE
SCREENANOTHER 'TOL'ABLE DAVID'
ROLE FOR OUR DICK IN THE KENTUCKY HILLS

"Tol'able David" has been re-incarnated—reborn under the magic touch of Richard Barthelmess, who once again has created a barefoot boy, in First National's "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," the idyllic film drama, at the Elite Theatre today, Saturday and Sunday.

As Chad Buford, the Kentucky mountain lad, who dreamed of "the settlement's" books and grand persons, Dick Barthelmess has added another lovable and unforgettable portrait to his already brilliant gallery.

Throughout the last few years Barthelmess has grown to be more than a name or even a personality, merely incidental designations. He has become a symbol—Romance to Everygirl and Sorcery to Everyboy.

And that's significant. It's boyish and yet manly. Only chums and buddies call a man named Richard by the more intimate and friendly "Dick." Girls, too, call him "Dick."

Dick Barthelmess as Chad Buford, a revelation, startling and breathtaking. It is uncanny that a man should be able to etch a delicate character such as Chad after the six year interval since David.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" will long occupy the deepest recesses of the American heart because Dick Barthelmess has given it flesh and blood and soul; because only the screen's man-boy could have imbued it with feeling and understanding.

Hayden Stevenson, "The Fourflusher" is "If I Was Rich," the latest comedy by William Anthony McGuire, which opens next Monday April 16 at Fischers Appleton theatre is the story of a man who came back to where he started from. This is the play selected to start our engagement in Appleton.

For Jimmie Sterling, the chief character of the piece, back is a long way, for he didn't have much of a start to begin with. An illiterate $10 a week shipping clerk, to satisfy his selfish young wife's desire for high society, he crashes into the circle of the Longs, island rich as the cast-off son of a South American rubber king.

He soon discovers, however, that his rich friends aren't so rich after all, and they just as soon discover that he is a far cry from a South American scion of millions. The big slap comes when it is revealed that Jimmie's miserly employer, whom he believes hasn't a cent in the world, is a wealthy man and in spite of his hard-hearted gruffness has a place for Jimmie in his heart. After a mystery of stolen jewels is cleared up and safely out of the way, and a misunderstanding about the seeming unfaithfulness of his wife is cast off, Jimmie finds a new and better job awaiting him and begins life again.

"If I Were Rich" has for its basis a theme so true to life, and it is unfolded with such a minute precision that there is little wonder that it stands out as one of the season's biggest comedy hits. The critics predicted correctly for its long and prosperous life.

King Vidor, director of "The Crowd," his latest production Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer today at Fischers Appleton theatre, took advantage of this bit of human interest and injected it into his story featuring Eleanor Boardman and James Murray. The story is an original by Vidor and is his first one hundred per cent American screen story since he made "The Big Parade." The picture is based on the humanities of life and concerns the great American middle class which works for a living.

Discusses revision of phone operators pay. Milwaukee—(P)—The wages of telephone operators in Wisconsin are being considered Friday at a conference held in the Milwaukee office of the state industrial commission. The conference is made up of members of an advisory committee on the hours of labor for women in telephone exchanges, and members of the advisory wage board.

A recommendation was recently made to the industrial commission by the committee for a modification of the general statute concerning labor hours for women who work in exchanges at night, particularly in the smaller exchanges. The adoption of such orders would automatically affect the amount of wages that telephone operators receive, so it becomes necessary to consider the rates of pay in exchanges.

The industrial commission has power to modify the statutory standards regulating the hours of labor for women. In 1917 the commission placed a ban on night work for women in laundries and factories. It is also charged with administration of the minimum wage law, which applies to which applies to laundries. The minimum wage law requires that a living wage be paid to minors, and the oppressive wage law requires that a wage reasonable and adequate shall be paid adult women.

Defer Meeting. The meeting of Y. M. C. A. directors scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, has been postponed until next week, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The meeting has been deferred because of the absence of two directors.

BADGER EDUCATORS DISCUSS PROBLEMS AT MILWAUKEE MEET

Noted Speakers Will Address Visitors Present for Two Day Convention

Milwaukee—(AP)—Members of school boards in scores of Wisconsin cities met here Friday to talk over the work they enjoy and the problems they meet in administering the affairs of education in the Badger commonwealth.

Their eighth annual meeting will continue through Saturday, a part of their time being devoted to meetings with the city superintendents of education in the Badger commonwealth.

Walter Alexander, president of the Milwaukee school board welcomed his fellow education supervisors this morning. His speech was followed by a talk on the old and new types of school boards by Lewis Powell, member of the Kenosha board. E. H. Miles, Ft. Atkinson, discussed tuition charges for elementary schools, and the morning session concluded with the outline, by John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, of high school aids. His approval was lent to a bill passed by the last legislature, which equalized the state aid given to smaller schools, and his talk centered around his studies of the economics of school administration.

The board representatives divided at luncheon meetings this noon according to the size of cities, those of the large places meeting separately from the administrators of school systems in the towns and villages. Loyal Durand, Milwaukee board member, led the four-man group, while G. S. Dick, of the state public instruction department presided over the representatives of smaller cities' schools boards.

Friday afternoon, E. G. Doudna, secretary of the state board of normal school regents, planned to tell the board members of their connection with the teachers' colleges, through their employment of teachers. His subject was "The Normal School and Good Teachers." O. H. Plenzke, assistant superintendent of public instruction, was to discuss teachers' sick leave and parent-teacher association activities and their relation to the board were to be taken up before the members by Mrs. A. L. Blackstone, members of the Waukesha board. Bert E. McCormick, secretary of the Wisconsin Teachers Association, is to be the last speaker for the program, speaking on "School and Life Guidance."

At a dinner Friday evening with city superintendents, the board members were planning to listen to the address of John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education. The only other after-dinner speech was that of E. C. Hartwell, superintendent of schools of Buffalo, N. Y.

Aside from the address by Joseph Kimbrell Hart, University of Wisconsin education specialist, on Adult Education, Saturday morning's session is devoted to business of the board members association. R. H. Rodgers, Milwaukee vocational school, is to speak on possibilities and practicality of vocational schools in smaller communities.

SHERIFF DOUBTS MAN'S STORY OF "HOLDUP"

The story of Arnold Theisen, French-born long held up and robbed about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning of $13 by three armed men is branded Friday as "peculiar" by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke. The sheriff is conducting an investigation.

Theisen claims he was on his way home from work at an Appleton paper mill and the three men stood in the road and forced him to stop his car, made him leave the machine and then searched him, taking his money. The sheriff believes if the three men robbed Theisen they would also have taken his car to make their getaway.

JUDGE UNABLE TO BE IN COURT FOR BELLECK CASE

Trial of Alfred Belleck, route 4, Black Creek, on a charge of forgery, was postponed Friday morning because Judge Theodore Berg is ill and unable to be in court. The date for the trial probably will be set when Judge Berg recovers.

Belleck was arrested in Seymour by Chief of Police Joseph Becker after he had cashed a $25 check in the Seymour Hardware store on March 31. The check was stolen by Clarence Brown and the name of Robert Gussie was forged.

Seven Airmen Lost Trying Flight From East To West

New York—(AP)—If the German plane Bremen succeeds in its flight across the north Atlantic it will be the first to complete the perilous westward passage.

Three other planes, carrying five men and two women, have vanished into the sea attempting the same flight.

The three previous attempts: Capt. Charles Nungesser and Maj. Francis Coli, attempting flight from Paris to New York, took off May 8, 1927, in the White Bird. Princess Lowenstain. Wertheim, Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Frederick F. Minchin, attempting a flight from Upavon, England, to Ottawa, Ont., took off Aug. 21, 1927, in the St. Raphael.

Capt. Walter R. G. Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie MacKay, attempting a flight from Croydon airdrome, England, to New York or Philadelphia, took off March 15, 1928, in the Endeavour.

AMERICANS SUCCEEDED Three planes, all manned by Americans, have made the eastward flight to Europe from this country, and two British and two American fliers crossed the north Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland and England. Three planes were lost in the attempt.

The successful flights: Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, from Newfoundland to Ireland, starting June 14, 1919.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the Spirit of St. Louis from New York to Paris, starting May 20, 1927.

Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, in the Columbia, from New York to Germany, starting June 4, 1927.

Commander Richard E. Byrd and three companions in the America from New York to France, starting June 20, 1927.

William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, in the Eagle of Detroit from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to England, starting Aug. 27, 1927.

MANY FAILURES The unsuccessful attempts, including one near success:

Lloyd D. Bertaud, John D. Hill and Philip F. Ryan, in Old Orchard, Me., to Rome, took off Sept. 6, 1927.

Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf, Canadians, in the Sir John Carling, attempting flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Croydon, England, took off Sept. 7, 1927.

Miss Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman left New York Oct. 11 and were forced down in the sea near the Azores. A Dutch tanker saved them.

Mrs. Frances Grayson and three companions, lost between New York and Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on first leg of flight to Croydon, England, left New York Dec. 25, 1927.

Judge Is Ill Municipal Judge Theodore Berg was confined to his home Thursday and Friday with illness. County Judge Fred V. Heinemann took his place in municipal court.

Carpenters Meet District Council of Carpenters will meet at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Trades and Labor hall. Regular business will be transacted.

BADGER POSTMASTER GIVEN DAY OFF BY NEW TO GO FISHING

Washington—(AP)—Writing as one fisherman to another, Postmaster General New Friday extended permission to Acting Postmaster Elmer S. Byers at Marion, Wis., to leave his official duties and go fishing May 17, the opening of the trout fishing season in Wisconsin. Byers had written a photograph of 50 big trout caught last year at Marion, asking leave and inviting him to share the stream "at his convenience."

"I could not deny any man the privilege of doing that," New replied. "If you are as fond of the sport as I am, the denial of it would certainly be regarded as a great hardship."

CHAMBER TO CONTINUE WITH PRESENT PLANS

New Officers Say They Can See No Reasons for Change in Operation

The Appleton chamber of commerce will continue on its present successful plan of operation during the coming year, according to officers elected Thursday by the board of directors. The new officers are W. O. Thiede, president; Homer Benton, first vice president; Roy Marston, second vice president; Matt Schuh, treasurer and Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary, were re-elected.

The general opinion of the new officers is that there is little to be gained by attempting any radical changes as the chamber is functioning well at the present time and the office has projects well underway.

A meeting of the executive committee is to be called within the next two weeks to elect committees and committee chairmen for the ensuing year.

Other business transacted by directors at their meeting Thursday was to adopt the budget for the year and make slight revisions in the plan of work.

POLITICIANS WONDER ABOUT FESS' ATTITUDE TOWARDS PRESIDENT

Many Believe He Will Make Grand Shout for Coolidge at Coming Convention

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Your correspondent cannot help being impressed by the probable significance of the honor which has been thrust upon the Hon. Simeon D. Fess, senior senator from the undeniably great state of Ohio.

It is difficult to dodge the impression that the election of the Hon. Simeon as keynoter for the Republican National Convention was encompassed after careful forethought by those gents who hope to draft President Coolidge for renomination and by those other gents who pretend to hope to draft the president as a means of reducing the delegate strength of the candidate they oppose.

Anyone who has heard Senator Simeon make a speech knows that he is not exactly the best inspirational orator the party could produce. And neither is he an ideal keynoter from the standpoint of prestige or popularity.

True, he was boomed as a presidential possibility the other day by zealous Ohio colleagues, but this has been regarded generally as rather an ornamental gesture.

The one thing which has brought great fame to the Hon. Simeon is the fact that of all those who have shouted for the renomination of the Hon. Simeon's close friend, Mr. Coolidge, he has shouted loudest, longest, oftenest, and most passionately. Again and again he has reiterated that Mr. Coolidge had not closed the door—that he would never answer the party's call in its hour of need.

Aside from that, the only thing that might have been expected to weigh more heavily against Senator Simeon's chances as a keynoter than his lack of assets for the job was his relative unavailability.

For all men in public life, the Hon. Simeon is perhaps the only one who can be called a liar without fear of a libel suit. Senator Simeon admitted to the Senate floor that in his efforts to help Mr. Coolidge he had prevaricated to newspaper men at the White House. The evidence is on Page 2878 of the Congressional Record, where you will find that the mendacious Simeon said: "Then I added what was not true, but I wanted to get it across."

Now there are many men in public life who are far greater liars than the senator from Ohio, but there are few who admit being liars at all.

Whether it is more honorable to lie and deny it or to lie and admit it, the fact remains that a reputation for mendacity would ordinarily be counted against a man when the parties pick their keynoters.

We now seem to have demonstrated that some remarkably cogent reason was behind the reelection of Cousin Fess. Was that reason the fact that he could make a heck of a good speech in praise of Mr. Coolidge and so get the delegates roused up over the president with a good four-and-a-half minute outburst for "Our Cal" when Fess had concluded? Probably not, for any keynoter would be forced to brag a great deal about Mr. Coolidge and there are several others who could do it more effectively than the Hon. Simeon.

Apparently the only logical deduction is that such gents as Chairman William M. Butler and Vice Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the Republican National Committee were anxious to strengthen the impression among the brethren that Mr. Coolidge was still a potent factor. Even the most obtuse politician, anxious to hitch onto the proper bandwagon, could not avoid being struck by the fact that the party's big bosses had chosen from the entire field this one man known to all as the most vociferous of the Coolidge draftsmen.

In other words, the Fess selection appears to be the latest move in the "black Hoover" game which has been going on for several weeks. Hilles, Mayor Thompson of Chicago, State Chairman George Morris of New York and former National Chairman William R. Wilcox, one by one, have marched out of the White House after seeing Mr. Coolidge with assertions that Mr. Coolidge could still be nominated and that sentiment for his renomination was strong. Chairman Butler being Chairman Butler, his silence after a similar visit was placed in exactly the same category.

If the Hoover strength can be broken up at the outset by the idea that Mr. Coolidge is receptive—and many delegates whom Hoover counts as his are for Coolidge first—it may not result in a stampede to Coolidge, but it may wreck Hoover.

TEN VOLLEYBALL TEAMS IN N. E. DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

Struggle For Sectional Honors Starts Saturday In Two Local Gymnasiums

Kimberly, Neenah, Menasha, Fondy, Manawa, Lawrence, Appleton, Oshkosh in

How They Stand

With ten of the strongest teams of this part of the state entered and ready for action, the 1928 northeastern Wisconsin district volleyball tournament of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Saturday afternoon and evening in the local gymnasium and Lawrence college gymnasiums. The tournament will be a double-elimination round-robin affair of the complicated type and a team must lose two games to be out of the running for the title.

A loser enters a secondary series of games from which the winner emerges to meet the team that has won all of its games and the title in the championship play. Thus a team with one loss plays a team that is undefeated for the title and if the former wins that match a playoff game is necessary as each have one loss apiece.

Teams entered in the meet are the Appleton Whites and the Appleton Blues, a division of the 1927 state championship team of the local "Y" and its second team; the Kimberly-Clark Co. team of Kimberly, 1927 district champion; Lawrence college professors, runnersup in the meet last year; Menasha, Oshkosh Elks, Paine Lumber Co. of Oshkosh, Neenah, Fondy Du Lac and Manitowish. A meeting of captains and managers of each team will be held Saturday noon to review all rules of the meet, get the correct and thorough slant on the schedule and make an effort to formulate a Fox River Valley Volleyball Association. If the latter step is successful regular schedule of games between members will be adopted next year, with each team visiting all other cities.

Referees for the meet will be Homer L. Gebhardt, physical director of the Green Bay association and an official of Wisconsin state meets for several years; George H. Packard and C. O. Gochnauer of Appleton.

SIX DRAW BYES

Only four teams play in the first round, six drawing byes. The Oshkosh Elks and Kimberly Clark meet in one opener at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at Lawrence gymnasium and the Oshkosh Paines and Manawa in the other at the same time at the Y. M. C. A. In the second round the Appleton Whites play Menasha at 1:45 at Lawrence, and Lawrence plays Neenah at the same time at the Y. Other second round battles bring Fondy Du Lac against the winner of the Oshkosh-Kimberly game at 2:30 at Lawrence and the Appleton Blues against the winner of the Oshkosh-Manawa game at 2:30 at the Y.

In the third round the winner of the Appleton-Menasha game plays the winner of the 2:30 game at Lawrence gym at 4 o'clock at the same place; the winner of the Lawrence-Neenah game meets the winner of the 2:30 game at the Y at 4:45 at the same place. This leaves two teams to clash at 8:15 at the Y, and the winner of this game plays the winner of the secondary series for the title at 10:15.

Now for the secondary series. The loser of the Oshkosh-Kimberly game meets the loser of the Oshkosh-Manawa game at the Y at 3:15 and the loser of the Appleton-Menasha game meets the loser of the Fondy Du Lac winner of Oshkosh-Kimberly game at Lawrence at 3:15. At the Y at 4 o'clock the loser of the Lawrence-Neenah game meets the loser of the Appleton Blues winner of Oshkosh-Manawa game.

At 4:45 at the Y, winners of the two 3:15 games play. At 5:30 at Lawrence winners of the 4 o'clock Y game and 4:45 Lawrence game clash. In the meantime, a loser in the first place series, the loser of the 4 o'clock Lawrence game meets another first place loser, that of the 4:45 Y game. This game is played at the Y at 5:30. Then the winners of the two 5:30 games meet at the Y at 7:30 and the winner of this game meets the loser of the 5:15 semi-final game of the first-place series at 9:30 at the Y to determine who will represent the secondary round in the title battle. The winner of the 9:30 game battles the team which has not been beaten during the meet, in the title play for the championship at 10:30. All evening games will be played at the Y. M. C. A.

Meanwell Announces 1928 Summer Coaching School

Madison —(AP)—Wisconsin's "Little Giant," Doc Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach at the state university and his companion in summer coaching, Lambert of Purdue, have announced their annual basketball coaching school for Camp Leonard Wood, near Mercer, Wis., July 30 to Aug. 11.

600 HANDICAP LITTLE HELP TO GIRLS' FIVE

A 600-pin handicap proved little help to the Elk Ladies Thursday evening at the Elk alleys, when they bowled the strong Retson-Jimos male quintet, and as a result they lost three games of the match and the total pin count by 113 pins. Without the handicap they would have been beaten by 713.

J. Behnke, Jr., of the winners was the big star of the evening, gathering high game of the match, a 246, and then adding a 225 to give him high series of the battle, a 644. For the losers, L. Currie had high game of 130 and high series of 478. Other 200 games were rolled by W. Fries, G. Retson and N. Brauer of the male quint, with 223, 209 and 224, respectively.

BILL CISSELL PROVES HE'S WORTH $123,000

Chicago —(AP)—Smilin' Bill Cissell, the $123,000 White Sox rookie shortstop, has rendered satisfaction plus so far to the skeptic Chicago fans.

In two games with Cleveland, the former Pacific Coast League star, has led the White Sox batting attack, logging five hits in eight times at bat. "The kid's a comer and worth the money," Manager Ray Schalk observed.

ORANGE TRACKMEN MAY ENTER MAJOR EVENTS IN MADISON

Coach Shields Would Take Champs to Midwest Relays if He Can Get Cars

If it can secure the truly active backing of citizens of Appleton, Coach Joseph Shields' Appleton high school track team may attempt to carry away some of the points at the University of Wisconsin's Midwest Inter-scholastic relays on April 28 at Madison, according to the Orange mentor. Shields has at least several performers from his 1927 Fox River Valley Conference champions who he thinks would cut into the point melon in the events at Madison, led by Capt. Swede Johnston.

The difficulty lies in getting transportation. Appleton high hasn't been represented in a state or interstate track meet for years and as a result its stars haven't had the advantage of the best kind of competition, but Coach Shields vows they shall have it this year if he can find three or possibly four sportsmen who will drive to Madison for the meet in this manner he can transport about 15 of his best men to the meet. Appleton, beside copping the Valley meet last year, will be a strong contender for the honors again this year as the victory at the Green Bay indoor games a few weeks ago showed.

HAVE THREE STARS

The Orange have at least three men who would cut deeply into the point melon in the state relays, one of whom should cut into the first place column. These men he desires to take particularly if the others cannot go as they will gain real experience for the remainder of the year and will give Appleton a chance to finish near the top in the Lawrence college meet when the class of the midwest high schools would be represented by full teams in an effort to take the team honors. With the meet being held here Appleton also can enter a full team and will have a chance against schools like Lindbloom and Hyde Park of Chicago, Riverside and others. This will be especially true if Johnston, Roemer or others manages to get a few firsts as with dozens of crack teams entered, 15 points may win the meet.

If he can take three men to Madison the Orange mentor will enter Johnston in the broad jump, shot put and 100-yard dash, Roemer in the 440 and Neller in the pole vault. Johnston with his three Valley records in the events, two of which, in the field events, compare with state meet marks, should take at least one first and place in both other events. Roemer should place in the 440 in which he is having his best year and Neller in the pole event in which he is Valley champion. He broke his own record mark of last year in his first meet this year and it was an indoor contest.

Others whom the Orange mentor would like to include are Kruse and opp. hurdlers and weight men. Strutz, pole vault and javelin, Kuritz, Marston, Nohr and others. If enough men can be taken he would enter teams in both relays. The Orange half-mile relay quartet beat its four leading conference foes, East and West Green Bay and Manitowoc, in an indoor race last week. Last year a Manitowoc won state honors setting a new state mark.

Hankinson, N. D., is the first high

ON MARKET

With the sale of Chalmers Cressell to the Chicago White Sox for $123,000 and Larry and Reese to the New York Yankees for $125,000, all the line talent in the Pacific Coast League has not been marketed. Sneed Jolley, star outfielder for the San Francisco Seals, and the champion batter of 1927, is now at the auction of several big buyers. Umpire Hildebrand, of the American League, says he is the most natural young hitter he ever saw and a finished felder. The Seals will want plenty of dough for him.

school to enter the relays. The Dakota school also entered last year.

Tom Lieb, erstwhile assistant football coach at the state university, who is in charge of the prep school relays has received word from several other schools, all over the country, signifying as large an entry list as last year, when 403 high school students were on Randall Field. They came from seven states as far east as Ohio. Gary, Ind., Rockford and Libertyville, Ill., and many other schools have written for particulars of this year's carnival, which the University athletic heads believe is assuming the importance in high school circles of the middle west that the Drake, Penn and Kansas relays have in college circles.

Oak Park, Ill., which sent a strong delegation of track and field stars to last year's carnival, is again expected to have its team before the Randall stands.

In addition to the traveling carnival trophy for the relay teams, individual plaques are to be awarded this year's winners, so that the school will perpetually have a reminder of their Mid-

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR
Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that three other possible suspects had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in the apartment ad-joining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing Spotswood was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him when he came out. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswood jumped into a cab. Skeel telephoned to the district attorney's office and told who committed the murder. They wait for him. He does not appear and when they go to his room they find him dead—strangled, just as Margaret Odell had been.

CHAPTER XLII
(Sunday p. m. Monday a. m.; September 16-17)

The investigation into Skeel's death was pushed with great vigor by the authorities. Doctor Doremus, the medical examiner, arrived promptly and declared that the crime had taken place between ten o'clock and midnight.

Immediately Vance insisted that all the men who were known to have been intimately acquainted with the Odell girl—Mannix, Lindquist, Cleaver and Spotswood—be interviewed at once and made to explain where they were during these two hours. Markham agreed without hesitation and gave the order to Heath, who at once put four of his men on the task. Mallory, the detective who had shadowed Skeel the previous night, was questioned regarding possible visitors, but inasmuch as the house where Skeel lived accommodated over twenty roomers, who were constantly coming and going at all hours, no information could be gained through that channel.

All that Mallory could say definitely was that Skeel had returned home at about ten o'clock and had not come out again. The landlady, sobered and subdued by the tragedy, repudiated all knowledge of the affair. She explained that she had been "ill" in her room from dinner-time until we had disturbed her recuperation the next morning.

The front door, it seemed, was never locked, since her tenants objected to such an unnecessary inconvenience. The tenants themselves were questioned, but without result, they were not of a class likely to give information to the police, even had they possessed any.

The finger-print experts made a careful examination of the room, but failed to find any marks except Skeel's own. A thorough search through the murdered man's effects occupied several hours, but nothing was discovered that gave any hint of the murderer's identity.

A .38 Colt automatic, fully loaded, was found under one of the pillows on the bed, and eleven hundred dollars, in bills of large denomination, was taken from a hollow brass curtain-rod. Also, under a loose board in the hall, the missing steel thrust, with the fissure in the blade, was found.

But these items were of no value in solving the mystery of Skeel's death; and at four o'clock in the afternoon the room was closed with an emergency padlock and put under guard.

Markham and Vance and I had remained several hours after our discovery of the body. Markham had taken immediate charge of the case and had conducted the interrogation of the tenants.

Vance had watched the routine activities of the police with unwonted interest and had even taken part in the search. He had seemed particularly interested in Skeel's evening clothes and had examined them garment by garment. Heath had looked at him from time to time, but there had been neither contempt nor amusement in the sergeant's glance.

At half past two Markham departed, after informing Heath that he would be at the Stuyvesant Club during the remainder of the day, and Vance and I went with him. We had a belated luncheon in the empty grill.

"This Skeel episode rather knocks the foundation from under every thing," Markham said despondently, as our coffee was served.

"Oh, no—not that," Vance answered. "Rather, let us say that it has added a new column to the edifice of my giddy theory."

"Your theory—yes. It's about all that's left to go on," Markham sighed. "It has certainly received substantiation this morning. Remarkable how you called the turn when Skeel failed to show up."

Again Vance contradicted him. "You overestimated my little flutter in forensics, Markham dear. You see, I assumed that the lady's strangle knew of Skeel's offer to you. That offer was probably a threat of some kind on Skeel's part, otherwise he wouldn't have set the appointment a day ahead. He no doubt hoped the victim of his threat would become amenable in the meantime.

operated the doctor from any participation in the previous night's crime.
By a curious coincidence neither Mannix, nor Cleaver, nor Spotswood could furnish a satisfactory alibi. All three of them, according to their statements, had remained at home the night before. The weather had been inclement; and though Mannix and Spotswood admitted to having been out earlier in the evening, they stated that they had returned home before ten o'clock.
Mannix lived in an apartment-hotel, and, as it was Saturday night, the lobby was crowded, so that no one would have been likely to see him come in.
Cleaver lived in a small private apartment-house without a door-man or hallboys to observe his movements. Spotswood was staying at the Stuyvesant Club, and since his rooms were on the third floor, he rarely used the elevator. Moreover, there had been a political reception and dance at the club the previous night, and he might have walked in and out at random a dozen times without being noticed.
"Not what you'd call illuminatin'," said Vance, when Markham had given him this information.
"It eliminates Lindquist, at any rate."
"Quite. And, automatically, it eliminates him as an object of suspicion in the Canary's death also; for these two crimes are part of a whole—integers of the same problem. They complement each other. The latter was conceived in relation to the first—was, in fact, a logical outgrowth of it," Markham nodded.
"That's reasonable enough. Anyway, I've passed the combative stage. I think I'll drift for a while on the stream of your theory and see what happens."
"What like me is the disquieting feeling that positively nothing will happen unless we force the issue. The lad who maneuvered those two obits had real bean in him."
As he spoke Spotswood entered the room and looked about as if searching for some one. Catching sight of Markham, he came briskly forward, with a look of inquisitive perplexity.
"Forgive me for intruding, sir," he apologized, nodding pleasantly to Vance and me, "but a police officer was here this afternoon inquiring as to my whereabouts last night. I struck me as strange, but I thought little of it until I happened to see the name of Tony Skeel in the headlines of a 'special' tonight and read he had been strangled."
"I remember you asked me regarding such a man in connection with Miss Odell, and I wondered if, by any chance, there could be any connection between the two murders, and if I was, after all, to be drawn into the affair."
"No, I think not," said Markham. "There seemed a possibility that the two crimes were related; and, as a matter of routine, the police questioned all the close friends of Miss Odell in the hope of turning up something suggestive. You may dismiss the matter from your mind. I trust," he ad-ed, "the officer was not unpleasantly importunate."

"Not at all," Spotswood's look of anxiety disappeared. "He was extremely courteous but a little mysterious.—Who was this man Skeel?"
"A half-world character and ex-burglar. He had some hold on Miss Odell, and I believe, extorted money from her."
A cloud of angry disgust passed over Spotswood's face.
"A creature like that deserves the fate that overtook him."
We chatted on various matters until ten o'clock, when Vance rose and gave Markham a reproachful look.
"I'm going to try to recover some lost sleep. I'm temperamentally unfitted for a policeman's life."

In England the law governing adoptions provides that the adopter must be at least 24, and 21 years older than the adopted, a man is not permitted to adopt a girl unless he satisfies the court that there are special advantages for her.

Noted Spanish Toreador Would Show Skill Here

Cordoba, Spain.—(P)—Antonio Canero, the bullfighter who fights his bulls from the backs of purebred horses, plans a visit to America to give a series of exhibitions of his skill. About the beginning of the year he will depart from Spain for the Canary Islands, where he is to perform in two fights, later going to Cuba to give exhibitions of his string of blood horses, and afterwards to Mexico, Guatemala, Peru and Venezuela.
Captain Canero, who is 45, is a soldier by profession. He holds the position of professor of equitation in the army. During 1927 he performed in forty bullfights, winning a bull's ear in Madrid for his prowess, the first time this decoration had been awarded to a bullfighter on horseback. He has also to his credit numerous trophies gained in horse-shows. In fights in the provinces during the year he never was tossed.
The horses in his string number 18, all tanned to meet the fiercest bulls without fear.
Fighting bulls from horseback was originally the sport of the Knights of Spain, who were assisted by fighters on foot taken from among their vassals. Philip V abolished bullfights, and by the time they were restored to favor in 1725 all desire to participate in them had disappeared from among the aristocracy.
The Constitution of the United States has been amended 19 times.

The new power!
The new beauty!
The new conception of radio

"SOME DAY," you said, "we're going to have a radio set that runs without batteries. It's going to be as simple as turning on an electric light."
The day is here! The set is here! Everybody who waited for perfected, care-free radio is finding his hopes realized in the extraordinary new Atwater Kent A. C. set—Model 37—welcomed in more than 150,000 homes since January 1st.
It's all in one cabinet—a truly electric set with the power units built in. It needs no batteries—yet it is smaller than many battery sets. Span it from top to bottom with the fingers of one hand. Place it on a small table and hardly know it's there. No waste space—radio reduced to its essentials.
It's the way it's made
It is powerful and selective. Natural tone without a ruffle—the cabinet is itself a positive shield against outside electrical interference, and the built-in power supply is doubly shielded—contributing to both selectivity and perfection of tone.
Speed and ease in selecting stations are assured by the FULL-VISION Dial—the whole dial before you at a glance. As time goes on and the set continues to do its work efficiently, day after day, month after month, you can well believe that the 222 factory tests or inspections of every set are worth while.
It's new outside as well as inside—this Atwater Kent 37. The design is new. The color combinations are new. The whole set is fresh, interesting—right in the modern trend.

MISSOURIANS RETURN REED TO SENATE BY OVERWHELMING VOTE

Polls Majority of 43,000 After All Hope for Victory Seemed Lost

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on outstanding political candidates, written for the Post-Crescent and NKA Service by Robert Talley. This article continues the story of Senator James A. Reed tomorrow will begin the story of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Washington—One of the favorite quotations of Senator Jim Reed, the fiery Missourian who is now campaigning for the presidency, is the old Missouri proverb, "The darkest hour comes just before the dawn."

The summer of 1922 found Jim Reed in his darkest hour. For his part in beating the League of Nations plan, leaders and members of his party had applied epithets that made "traitor" and "renegade" seem mild. The ominous shadow of Woodrow Wilson's hatred hung over him, a shadow tinged with popular sympathy for the sick man at his home on S Street here.

Reed, running for re-election for another six-year term, was opposed in the Democratic primary by Breckinridge Long, who had been third assistant secretary of state under Wilson. In a public letter, Wilson denounced Reed as he had done many times before and asked Missouri Democrats to vote for Long.

ALL AGAINST HIM

It seemed that every man's hand was against him. Even his opponent was campaigning with the blessing of the party's leader, a fallen but still mighty star. It was up to Reed to placate the hostility he found everywhere. He must make peace.

How did he do it?

With a snarl! With a fierce, bitter, last-ditch campaign in which he asked no quarter and gave none. With a fighting on his enemies and a refusal to soften or apologize for a single one of the acts that had brought him unpopularity. That was Jim Reed's way of making peace.

"Fighting . . . fighting . . . fighting! All I ever got in this world I've had to fight for," has been Reed's cry through life.

Here is a sample of Jim Reed's tactics during that historic campaign of 1922 when he started his "come-back."

TALKS TO FARMERS

Before a platform illuminated by kerosene flares in a small Missouri town, a dense crowd of farmers and their wives are packed. Reed, in his shirt sleeves, moved to the front of the platform and looks out sternly over his audience. Presently, in a harsh, rasping voice he speaks.

"Who told you that you had the right to think for you and me anyway?" he begins. Thus he meets the charge that he had been unfaithful to Wilson.

Then he grins a broad, goodhumored grin and his voice becomes playful.

"Did Breckin Long tell you that?" he asks. "Why, see here, folks—what if I should be elected president some day and Breckin had to let me do his thinking for him? Don't you see what an awful fix we'd both be in?"

Suddenly, Reed's face distorts to a snarling mask, his harshness returns and he thunders out:

"When I opposed some of the things that the president wanted I wasn't fighting the president. I was fighting for you people. This isn't a one-man government. This is a government of 110,000,000 men and women. You sent me to congress to agree with the president when I believed he was right and to fight him when I believed he was wrong—didn't you?"

So the speech went on, shifting to harsh humor at times, but always carrying the inclusive cry of defiance. Act by act, Reed took up his record, shouting his explanation and renewing his assault on Wilson. With variations, the scene was repeated nightly throughout Missouri.

He refused to be put on the defensive. He was forever attacking, attacking, attacking . . . fighting, fighting, fighting.

WINS EASILY

Reed was renominated triumphant, and re-elected by 43,000 votes. He returned to the Senate to resume his spectacular career.

For a time, he seemed subdued—wary and disheartened—but not for long. In the 69th congress he got into three outstanding fights—and although he lost all three, his reputation and prestige increased. He took the leadership of the anti-World Court crowd away from Borah and held it to the end. He assailed the Mellon tax bill. He was one of the leaders in the fight over the Italian debt settlement.

In 1926, he suddenly picked up the prohibition issue and made it alive again. During the ordinary routine consideration of wet and dry bills by the judiciary committee, he dragged high prohibition officials on the stand. He developed that 60,000,000 gallons of bonded alcohol were escaping annually from the government. He drew out an estimate that there were 1,700,000 illicit stills operating in the United States and got General Lincoln Andrews, enforcement chief, to say that prohibition enforcement would be greatly simplified if the sale of beer was legalized.

Reed wanted to cross-examine the late Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, but Wheeler was canny enough to appear at this hearing as counsel. Reed wanted to probe the whole league from end to end.

But finally the chance came. During Reed's scathing investigation of the Vate election in Pennsylvania—which he stated as the result of charges of fraud—the Anti-Saloon League asserted that excessive use of money had helped defeat Governor Pinchot, the dry candidate.

FOUGHT PROHIBITION

A less keen man might not have seen the opportunity, but Reed leaped upon this statement and made it one of his excuses for dragging the whole prohibition question before his committee. He got away with it.

From Wheeler, on the witness stand, Reed drew the entire story of the prohibition movement. He learned that the league had spent $35,000,000 to buy about 100,000 of the dry legislators in the United States and had paid $100,000,000 to buy an army of New York State legislators.

He established that congressmen and

YOU'LL BE REMINDED OF SNOW STORMS WHEN YOU PAY TAXES

There are a lot of people in Appleton who are saying plenty about the weather man as the result of the recent snow storm and cold weather. But there are probably as many more persons who will say plenty about the winter this year when they pay their taxes beginning in 1929. Up at the city barns the men will recall for you that there have been four good sized snow storms in the last few weeks and with Saturday's miniature blizzard some persons will have had their walks shoveled five times. And the street department or the city of Appleton doesn't shovel walks for nothing.

FRENCH NOT TO TRY FIXING MEAT PRICES

Paris—(AP)—Official price-fixing for butchers is again being attempted here to bring down the cost of living. Shortly after the war-time boom of 1919 there was a great outcry against meat prices and there were many prosecutions for violations of official price lists.

Bakers have proved more difficult to handle. Their resistance to argument by a special city commission caused by the government, which shares largely in governing Paris, to approve drastic methods. Premier Poincare and the cabinet adopted a plan to make obligatory a scale of prices to be drafted weekly by the city. These prices are required to be posted, just as every restaurant must post its menu with prices.

Much of the expense of French butchers is attributed to waste in not having proper refrigeration and the disproportionate amount of overhead expense because of the large number of small butcher shops.

TELL IT TO "CENTRAL"

Carlinville, Ill.—Here's warning to that spiteful nuss at "central" who has the habit of answering your complaints with a buzz in the ear. Della Truman has been awarded $500 damages here for impaired hearing, claimed to be the result of an operator pressing the bell key while the subscriber had the receiver to her ear. The suit, which was for $500, was settled out of court.

senators were being paid money for making speeches for prohibition. In all, he had quite a merry time.

Reed's outstanding recent achievement has been his investigation into the election of Vare, in Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Smith, in Illinois, it being alleged that these millionaires "bought" their way into the Senate with excessive campaign expenditures. The Senate has already voted deny Smith his seat; meanwhile, Vare is starting aside until his investigation is completed.

Reed occasionally practices law. In Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 suit against Henry Ford as the aftermath of Ford's anti-Jew campaign, Ford is said to have retained Reed at a fee of $100,000. The suit was settled by compromise and never came to trial.

Today, at 66, Jim Reed is still fighting . . . fighting . . . fighting.

It is not only his greatest skill, but probably his last. If he is defeated in his effort for the presidency, he plans to return to Kansas City and settle down to the practice of law.

DISCUSS METHODS OF GETTING TOURISTS TO SPEND VACATION HERE

Tourist Development Conference Will Be Held at Milwaukee April 19

Milwaukee—(P)—The problem of getting the tourist to come to Wisconsin early and stay late—that is the June and September tourist business—will be one of the prime points of discussion during the tourist development conference here April 19. June and September have long been bugaboo months for Wisconsin summer hotel operators. Persons with families are unable to leave their homes until school closes late in June, while reopening of schools early in September has made that a poor tourist month.

Bob Becker, outdoor editor of the Chicago Tribune, who has made a careful survey of Wisconsin recreational life, will address the conference, called by the Outdoor Club of Wisconsin, with executive offices at Wausau. Mr. Becker's subject will be "How to Increase June and September Tourist Business in Wisconsin." The Outdoor Club announces.

While Wisconsin gets large numbers of early summer and early fall fishermen, the number of hotels catering to the tourist is so great and distribution of guests so wide that June and September are poor business months. Consequently, Becker's plan is awaited with interest by scores of

127th Infantry Proud Of Its Coat Of Arms

Few organizations or families can boast a coat of arms or insignia which has back of it the history and the accomplishments of the 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard of which Co. D, Appleton, is a part. To the Spanish-American war veteran it should recall the stirring days of '98; to the Mexican campaigner the Texas sun and to the World War veteran, Alsne-Marne, St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

The coat of arms is an argent and blue shield on which is surmounted the shoulder sleeve insignia of the 42nd division, the fourth quadrant of a rainbow of three bands, red, yellow and blue, surmounted by the shoulder sleeve insignia of the 32nd division, a red arrow having shot through a line.

On the chief of the shield, the upper one third, there is inscribed three circles symbolizing three fountains. For the Wisconsin National Guard regiments of the 127th Infantry, the crest of the shield shows a badger in a couchant position. The motto of the 127th Infantry is "Les Terribles."

The blue on the shield is for infantry companies, the silver indicating that the 128th Infantry is numerically senior to the 6th Infantry brigade. The 127th Infantry was federally recognized July 14, 1920 and the 128th Infantry, April 16, 1921.

Tradition has it that the name Wisconsin means "wild rushing waters," and for that reason, the three fountains, heraldic symbols of water, are used to symbolize the three Wisconsin regiments, the first, second and third National Guard regiments which were combined to make up the 127th Infantry. They also signify that the units were called into federal service three times, for the Spanish-American war, Mexican border service and in the World War.

When the shield is worn by officers on their service uniform, it is worn on the upper portion of the shoulder, loops of the coat or on the front of the service hat midway between band and crease. It also may be worn on the upper portion of the shoulder loop of the olive drab blouse; on the white jacket, the same as on the service coat, and on the mess jacket on both lapels above line of miniature medals.

Enlisted men wear the insignia on both sides of the collar on their service uniforms. On the standing collar it will be three fourths of an inch in back of the service insignia; on the roll collar, centered on collar, lower edge one half inch from upper edge of button insignia; on the front of the service hat midway between band and crease.

The glory of the present 127th Infantry is the result of accomplishments of the 150th machine gun battalion of the 42nd or Rainbow division and the 127th Infantry as a part of the 32nd division. Formerly they both had been the 127th Infantry, three of the companies, Co. E, F and G of the 2nd Wisconsin national guard being taken from the regiment and designated the Wisconsin representatives in the Rainbow division. Company G was the Appleton guard company.

Battle credits won by the 150th machine gun battalion are the result of service in the Champagne-Marne, Alsne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, Lunerville, Baccarat, Esperance-Souain and Essey-Fannes sectors.

After the war, the 150th machine gun battalion was disbanded and the former companies E, F and G of the old Second Infantry of prewar days passed out of existence to become a howitzer company and companies M and D. Company D is the present national guard company at Appleton, and is still a machine gun unit.

The red arrow on the insignia is the result of battle credits of the 127th Infantry as a part of the 32nd division. The unit saw service in the Centre sector, Alsne-Marne, Fismes sector, Cise-Alsne and Meuse-Argonne.

The present 127th and 128th Infantry regiments are closely connected with reference to their World War record because the 127th, as now constituted, is made up of 8 units of the war-time 127th Infantry, the 6 units of the war-time 128th Infantry, while the present 128th Infantry is made up of 8 units of the war-time 128th and 6 units of the war-time 127th. For that reason their insignias are almost the same, the 128th having just the Red Arrow.

MRS. BROKAW GOING TO WOMAN GOLFERS MEET

Mrs. Norman Brokaw, of Neenah, will attend the annual spring meeting of the directors of the Wisconsin Women's Golf association Saturday at the Schroeder hotel at Milwaukee. Mrs. Brokaw will represent the River-view women golfers. An informal session will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and a luncheon at 12:30. The regular business meeting will follow the luncheon. Twenty seven clubs are members of the association now. Two new clubs, The Westmoor and Tuckaway Country clubs, have been admitted since last year.

LAND COMMISSIONERS HAVE MONEY TO LOAN

Money Accumulated from Sale of Lands Is Increasing Rapidly

Madison—(AP)—One division of the state government has more money on hand than it knows what to do with.

The commissioners of public lands, who administer the revenues derived from the sale of state lands, have more than a million dollars from which they would like to make loans to school districts, towns, counties, villages and cities. The land commission has approximately eleven million dollars out on loans now, and the exact amount for which it would like to find borrowers just now is $1,318,884.51.

The law permits it to make loans at 4 percent interest to school districts for purchasing building sites and erecting new buildings. Its loans may be repaid within 15 years in annual installments. Cities, towns, counties and villages may borrow at 4 1/2 per cent, repaying within 20 years by annual installments. The limit which a school district may borrow is $50,000, and the loan may not exceed 5 per cent of the assessed valuation based on an average for 3 years.

Funds which the commissioners of public lands administer have been increasing about one-half million dollars a year, and applications for loans within the past month have not been so great as they usually are, according to A. D. Campbell, chief clerk of the commission.

Of the more than a million dollars the commission now has available for loans, $481,103.45 was paid into the common school fund from penal funds between July 1, 1927, and April 10, 1928.

George N. Danielson, chief of the naturalization department at Duluth, Minn., is spending a ten day vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Danielson, 409 E. South River-st. Mr. Danielson has charge of naturalization work in 45 courts in northern Minnesota, north-west Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan. He formerly had charge of the work here.

We Don't Care For A Round Earth

This flat earth is satisfactory. That is what Christopher Columbus was obliged to listen to when he proposed something better. In those days people were satisfied with things as they were.

Now-a-days people are not satisfied with things as they are, but rather demand something better. People realize that there is as much difference in meat as there is between a Lincoln and a Ford. Cheaply priced meat, of course, means cheap quality. Higher quality meat means slightly higher cost, but less waste, less bone, and less fat and so it is more economical in the long run. Voecks meat is for people who are glad there is a difference in meat.

Forest Heroism

The annals of the Forest Service is full of the records of heroic deeds by the rangers. Gifford Pinchot tells the story of how courage and clear thinking on the part of Ranger Edward C. Pulaski saved many lives in the Coeur d'Alene National Forest. Pulaski had forty Italians and Poles under him as emergency fire fighters.

The fire surrounded them. Soon it became apparent that it would be impossible to travel through the dense forest to escape the flames.

Pulaski thought of an abandoned mine in the neighborhood. He led the men into it and placed a wet blanket over the mouth of the tunnel. —

Standing guard with drawn pistol at the mouth of the mine he forced the men to remain. Some went mad temporarily from the intense heat and from fear. The workers tried to break out—Pulaski forced them back with his pistol. One did escape—only to die in the furnace outside. Pulaski spent months in the hospital suffering from burns, but he saved his men.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSDON'T NEED MORE
BUS SERVICE, CITY
TELLS COMMISSIONKaukauna Attorney Protests
Operation of Line Through
City to Manitowoc

Kaukauna—The city of Kaukauna officially protested the application of Edward Zeininger of Menasha to operate a auto transportation line between Neenah and Manitowoc at a hearing before A. Johnson, examiner for the Wisconsin Railroad commission at the county court house in Appleton Thursday morning. Joseph Lefevre, city attorney, represented Kaukauna.

Following protests filed by Kaukauna and the village of Little Chute the transportation man decided to change his route rather than have the railroad commission refuse his application because of the protests. The new route he proposed will pass from Neenah to Menasha to Appleton, then out the Lake Rd to Sherwood and Dundas where the original route will be picked up. This was satisfactory to Kaukauna and Little Chute.

Mr. Lefevre told the commission that the city believed there was no necessity for the extra service and that at the present time the railroad company was providing adequate service between Kaukauna and Manitowoc. The attorney told the examiner that if there was a necessity for more service between those two cities the commission had the authority to order the railroad company to provide more trains. He also explained that the railroad companies were paying to maintain their right of ways while very little in license money was derived from bus and transportation lines which operated over public highways at great expense to the taxpayers.

Lumberman's Hobby Is Making Fishing Rods

Kaukauna—Omar K. Graef, owner of the Union Lumber Co. of this city, spends much of his spare time in the interesting occupation of making fishing rods and flies. Many an evening he can be found working in a room in his home which he devotes exclusively to fishing tackle. With the exception of a few small parts which he purchases from local merchants, all of the work on the rods and flies is done by himself. Mr. Graef says that there is as much pleasure making them as there is in using them after finished. Quite often he thinks out some freak design for a fly or a way of strengthening a rod and at his first opportunity he works out his idea. Then he cannot rest until he has had an opportunity of trying it to see if it is better than the common ones used.

ATTORNEY RULES ON CONFLICTING JOBS

County Board Member Must Resign if He Takes Assistant Fireman Job

Madison—(P)—An opinion by the attorney general that George Staudenmayer, Postville, automatically vacated his place on the highway commission by accepting the chairman ship of the town of Caledonia, has been followed by several requests for rulings by the department on eligibility of county board members to accept various offices.

The legal opinion has just been rendered by Lewis W. Powell, district attorney of Kenosha, so that there is no legal obstacle to prevent a member of the county board from resigning to accept the position of assistant fireman. In January, 1925, the Kenosha county board created the job of assistant fireman, a part of whose duties is to take care of the court house lawn. Appointment to the position was made by the county agent, and not by the county board. A member of the board now wants to resign his place as assistant fireman. He was a member of the board at the time the office of assistant fireman was created, and, the attorney says, would not have been permitted under the law to take the job during that term of office. However, he sees no reason why he may not resign during his present term of office and assume the duties of the other position.

Raymond D. Ewald, district attorney of Brown, is informed by the attorney general that a member of the county board is ineligible to employment or appointment as inspector for county highway work, and is also ineligible to be a road patrolman.

The statutes provide that no member of a county board shall, during the term for which he is elected, be eligible to any office or position which has been created during his term, or the selection to which is vested in the board.

SAYS YEARS NECESSARY TO HARNESS MISSISSIPPI

Although a plan he had in mind would take a generation to complete, Dr. M. H. Small, principal of Wisconsin high school, told members of the Men of the First Methodist Church, Oshkosh, Monday night that the planting of trees along the river bank, the straightening of the channel and the harnessing of irrigation plants would harness the Mississippi river and prevent disastrous floods such as occurred in 1927.

Dr. Small, a former member of the Oshkosh State Teachers college faculty, said the river at its minimum flow had twice as great a power as Niagara Falls and during flood time had eight times as much power as the great falls.

Because of the large amount of silt carried down and because the mouth of the river is higher than the surrounding country, he said it would be a stupendous task to control the river but that it could not be accomplished in time.

No One Cares Even If It Is Friday The Thirteenth

This is Friday the Thirteenth again and the superstitious of Appleton are dodging ladders and keeping an eye out for black cats.

The dreaded day, however, seems to have lost much of its former zest here because people engaged in hazardous occupations seem to give it no thought whatsoever. Several painters, working on the roof and edge of the Spectator building, College-ave and Appleton st climb about much the same as usual and Eddie Merritt pilot of the 'Pride of Appleton' went aloft in his customary manner.

A foreman of the crew cleaning away the debris from the burned Zuehlke building remembered it was Friday the Thirteenth and warned his men to keep away from the dangerous overhanging walls and a party of three Menasha men, who had planned a trip to Eau Claire today, postponed it until Saturday when one of the trio recalled the day and date.

Local women who have been unable to appear in the Easter finery so far this season and who had been hoping for good weather next Sunday, blame the threatening clouds and forecast of bad weather onto the unlucky day.

It's Friday the Thirteenth, all right, but who cares?

GET OUT YOUR RUBBERS,
MORE SNOW ON WAY HERE

Appleton residents had best be ready for most any kind of weather within the next 24 hours, according to the weather prediction.

There may be need for umbrellas, slickers, rubbers, galoshes, and over coats for the weather promises rain or snow for Friday night and Saturday.

Early morning temperatures have been lower than in the last week. Friday morning the mercury registered 26 degrees and by noon had risen to 40 degrees above. No decided change in temperature is expected in the next 24 hours, according to the weather report.

Conditions at sea were reasonable, so far as knowledge went. At least the possible disturbances were light for all evidence. The Bremen took enough gas to keep it in the air until after 4:30 Eastern Standard time Friday afternoon, or 40 hours from its departure from Baldoonville, Ireland, near Dublin, at 12:38 Eastern standard time Thursday morning.

Shortly after midnight Friday morning the plane was to make a landfall, either Newfoundland or Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, should its course be a bit further south. The early morning hours passed without her being reported. But this gave no cause for alarm. Aviators pointed out the plane to have made a landfall after a 2,000 mile water jump and unseem on a sparsely settled coast during the dark, to have turned to avoid its destination Mitchell field, Long Island, New York, 1,000 miles away.

At Mitchell field the assumption was that all was well, that sometime Friday afternoon the silver grey mono-plane would be seen flying.

Only an unforeseen accident to the plane's single motor was regarded as standing between the flyers and success. When the plane was last sighted clearing Ireland and heading over the sea the motor was performing perfectly. And the plane's wings were coated with an anti-freeze solution to prevent weighing down by ice.

The trio aboard presumably were doggedly sticking at their tasks, Captain Herman Koehl, German war flyer, and Colonel James Fitzmaurice, commander of the Irish Free State air force, taking the controls alternately at four hour intervals and Nelson at four hour intervals. The Bremen carried no life saving apparatus and has neither life buoys or wireless aboard.

Naval officers at Washington plotted the course which it was assumed the Bremen was following and announced that the distance from Dublin to St. Johns, Newfoundland, was 2,048 miles and that from St. Johns to New York, 1,133 of an approximate total of 3,200 miles from Baldoonville to Mitchell field.

Commander Richard E. Byrd in New York expressed confidence in the flyers and hope for their success.

The Bremen carried no life saving apparatus and has neither life buoys or wireless aboard.

CROWD DISAPPOINTED
Mitchell Field, N. Y.—(P)—A crowd of about 1,000 persons broke into cheers and rushed the police lines guarding the flying field Friday morning when a plane of watchers believed to be the trans-Atlantic Bremen swooped to ground.

When the plane proved to be the Junkers C-38, sister ship of the Bremen, and to have arrived from Curtis field, one mile away from the field, the crowd began gathering early and by 8 o'clock the road along the edge of the field was crowded. The weather was perfect with sunny skies and a fresh westerly breeze, the optimism was general.

The Bremen was not seriously expected for several hours, but the watchers scanned the skies ceaselessly.

WIFE DIVORCED FROM BLACK CREEK PASTOR

Minne Herzfeldt, 39, 911 N. Ell-st., was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Edgar V. Werner last week on the plea that her husband, August F. Herzfeldt, pastor of a church at Black Creek, had been cruel and inhuman. Judge Edgar V. Werner heard the case in circuit court several weeks ago and granted Mrs. Herzfeldt the judgment after she considered the matter for some time. The couple was married in Appleton on May 21, 1924, and separated in October, 1927.

THE 'PRIDE' SPLASHES WHEN LANDING MADE ON MENOMINEE FIELD

Appleton men who went to Menominee, Mich., Thursday morning to make talks at an aviation booster meeting that afternoon and evening, had the experience of landing in a field covered with water according to pilot Eddie Merritt.

Menominee's new airport is not yet completed and an adjoining field had been marked for the pilots to land in. A covering of high grass prevented the pilot from seeing the water beneath with the result that 'The Pride of Appleton' fairly splashed when it landed he said.
